

Blog of the Week

There are some super blog posts this week. Miss Boutska's class re-tell the story of the Little Red Hen in enthusiastic and cheerful style here and Ibrahim Atif has published the second episode of his exciting mystery story on Mrs Bloom's Class Blog, while for Mr Cosgrove's class Anne-Marie has put up two great posts.

But blog of the week this week goes to Mrs Gooch's class for the wonderful pictures of their work on the Water Cycle on the day their parents came to learn alongside them. See them here. And our individual blogger of the week is Olivia Luczak, whose brilliant theatre review shows how much the children benefitted from their trip to see The Lion King.

Olivia's review begins:

Africa comes to life with roaring colour at the Lyceum theatre. The family classic Lion King, was cleverly adapted and captured the hearts of the audience. The jaw droppingly spectacular show raised many emotions from laughter to tears. Director and costume designer Julie Taymor ably assisted by the words and music of Tim Rice, and Sir Elton John created an unforgettable performance that left the crowd dumbstruck. The breathtakingly sensational show had the crowd awestruck and unable to take their eyes off the flawless choreography by Garth Fagan and remarkable scenes by Richard Hudson.

Our Week on Twitter

This week, we tweeted advice from the Book Trust and Olivia's fantastic theatre review. Later today (Friday) we will tweet pictures of our stars. Keep up to date with all the news and views from Christ the King; follow us on Twitter @CTK_RDG.

SNIPPETS

Apologies to Maimuna, who started last week for us in Wolof, but whose photograph was not in last week's newsletter!

Board Games: Do you have any board games at home that are no longer used? Mrs. Asker would love to have them to use with her class.

No NUTS

It is vitally important that we have no nuts or nut products in school, as some of our children are extremely allergic to nuts, and the smallest trace can cause them to become ill. Please remember not to include any nut products, including nut butters, in packed lunches.

We started our week in Hindi and finished in Lithuanian.

"Namaste!" "Laba diena!"
