Building Work—Incident

As you may already be aware, the extension building work suffered an unfortunate accident on Monday, when the school mains power supply was dug through. This caused a lot of damage to electrical items across the school, which Mr. Powell and others have been working tirelessly to fix. Our thanks to everyone who has worked so hard on our behalf. Mr Powell

Please Remember: No NUTS in SCHOOL

This includes nut-based products
Several of our children are severely allergic to nuts.

and Mr Buckland, our health and safety Governor were on site until 11.30 on Monday evening.

Despite the damage, we are fortunate that no-one was injured by the incident, and that the school could carry on as normal quite quickly.

Fifty Years Old in July!

We would like a working party of interested parents, governors, pupils and staff to plan our jubilee celebrations. If you can help with this please come to the first meeting at 1.30 p.m. on Tuesday 25th April.

Polo Shirts

The School Governors have agreed to the School Council's request to change the colour of our polo shirts from yellow to white. However, our uniform suppliers are not yet selling white polo shirts with the school logo. It was always accepted that there would be a change-over period when some children would be wearing white, and others would still be in yellow. It is therefore quite acceptable for children to continue to wear yellow polo shirts, if parents wish. It is also fine for the children to wear generic white polo shirts, without our logo, until our uniform suppliers catch up with the uniform change.

Active Kids—Competition

We hinted in previous editions of the newsletter that we were arranging a competition to encourage the collection of Active Kids vouchers. The child bringing in the most vouchers will win a Red Letter Day kids' voucher to the value of £30 and there will also be a prize for the class that collects the most.

We started our week in Portuguese and finished in Aka Twi-Fanti.

Class Blog of the Week

Class Blog of the Week Award goes to Mrs Gooch's class. There was some stiff competition this week but the video of the poetry reading clinched it. Mrs Gooch's blog is at <http://year4rg16.ctkreading.net/>.
