New on this week's Blogs...

The children have been blogging enthusiastically in the past couple of weeks. There are super new entries on many of the blogs, but in particular check out the fabulous rhyming poems on Mrs Gooch's blog—and the video of the children reading them!

There are also some super entries for Mr Cosgrove's blog—another “fantastical” book review from Umar (no, Umar—it's not a word!) and a lovely description of her First Communion from Cassidy.

Well done to all our bloggers!

Please Remember : No nuts in school

We have several children who are allergic to nuts.

We started our week in Hindi and finished in Spanish

Namaste

Buenos Días

Congratulations to...

Jay Monteiro who plays for local football side Tekkers, played really well in a recent tournament and was awarded a magnificent trophy;

Mia Dunne who has been awarded her orange belt for karate.

Very well done to both of these.

Research

Thank you to those parents and children who have already agreed to take part in the research project run by the University of Reading in which scientists are investigating how children focus and whether this has an effect on how well they do at school.

This is interesting and important research and we are very pleased that the University staff have asked us to work with them. If you have not already done so, please do consider giving permission for your child to take part.
